DeQueen Eliminates Hope From Title Race, 12-7

LEAD ALL THE WAY

D. Aubrey Puts Over First
Score—DeQueen Never Is Headed

By LEONARD ELLIS
In case you don't know—the Bobcats lost to DeQueen here Friday night, 12 to 7.

The Bobcats had the game in the bag before they came on the field—but when they left it the scoreboard said something different.

But that's football. It's one of those well-known upsets you read about. There's a lot more that can be said. But getting back to the game. DeQueen showed a classy, determined, hard-fighting team that was well-coached.

The Leopards did everything right before some 2,000 fans. They blocked well. They fought every minute of the game. They were determined. They had the spirit and the will to win. In short, that's what Hope didn't have!

That was the difference between the two teams Friday night—and the score proved it.

Presenting a versatile offensive with the best interference seen here this season, the Leopards swept the two Hope ends off their feet, with long end runs. McLemore, fullback, fired short, bullet passes for consistent gains.

DeQueen Is "Hot"
The Leopards were "hot" and couldn't be stopped. Almost every pass thrown by McLemore was true and found its mark in the arms of a team mate.

The visitors scored in the opening quarter. D. Aubrey, brilliant little quarterback, quickly discovered that the Hope ends were playing in close. He called for some wide, sweeping end runs that saw his team march down the field.

Reaching the 4-yard line, Aubrey crossed up the Bobcats with a straight line play. He took the ball himself and shot through the Bobcat forward wall and across the goal line for touchdown. Try for extra point failed.

On two occasions in the first quarter the Bobcats got within scoring distance, once on the 10-yard line and again on the 12-yard line. Spears, almost single-handedly, brought the ball down the field on both occasions.

Several times he was forced to push his own interference out of the way to get through the line. His mates were not charging. After reaching the scoring zone the Bobcat team seemed to fold up, and the ball went to DeQueen on downs.

The Leopards clawed up and down the field but never seriously threatened during the second quarter. The half ended with DeQueen out in front, 6 to 0.

The Bobcats were still unable to click as a unit when the third quarter got underway. DeQueen took the kickoff. D. Aubrey, the smart little quarterback, was knocked out on the first play and carried off the field. Sewell, halfback, carried on. They kept fighting.

Hope soon recovered a fumble on DeQueen's 40. It looked like the Bobcats had finally come to life. W. Parsons and Spears planned for first down. W. Parsons carried the ball three times and went to the 15-yard line.

Fumble Is Costly
On the next play Hope fumbled. DeQueen recovered. The Leopards made two first downs on sweeps around the ends and then were forced to punt. The Bobcats took it near midfield. McDaniel, on two tries, tore through the line for first down. Another first down lacked only about a yard, but but Spears called the right play and elected to kick. The ball sailed over the goal line and was brought out on DeQueen's 20.

It was about the middle of the third quarter. The Bobcats and Coach Fay Hammons began to grow desperate. Hammons ordered Vasco Bright, quarterback until injured a month ago, to the dressing room to suit-up.

In the meantime the Leopards had got possession in midfield. Hope was

A THOUGHT

I could never pour out my inmost soul without reserve to any human being, without danger of one day repenting my confidence.—Burns.

Turned Brown By Brown Turner

NASHVILLE, Tenn.—(Special)—This Social Security Act, brought to our attention mostly by the Republican National Committee, is designed to protect a lot of us in the event of another depression. In other words, if you dodge automobiles long enough to be 65 years old you'll draw a pension big enough to hire a taxi to haul you to the poor house. It costs the worker one per cent of his wages, but on the face of the thing, it does look good, and is the cheapest insurance ever thought up by anybody except Dr. Townsend. If you're going to lay anything on any of the big games today better do them out yourself. Remember what the sports writers said about the Louis-Schmeling fight and what the Literary Digest said—but why go into that?

And Pine Bluff's Zebras
Are Playing Capital
City Saturday

Blytheville and Little Rock remained the only major undefeated high school football teams in Arkansas Saturday morning after the smoke of battle cleared away Friday night.

Little Rock plays Pine Bluff at Little Rock Saturday afternoon in a renewal of one of Arkansas' oldest gridiron rivalries. Little Rock has been defeated this season—but not against Arkansas competition.

Toppling from the undefeated list Friday night was Hope's Bobcats in what probably will go down as the biggest upset in Arkansas high school football this season.

Arkansas High School, another unbeaten team, fell before Clarksville, 32 to 7.

El Dorado had a holiday Friday against the injured-postered Hot Springs Trojans, winning from the Trojans, 44 to 0.

Candens Panthers showed plenty of power in bowling over Fordyce, 31 to 0.

Forrest City, which meets Blytheville next week, was hard-pressed to win from Stuttgart, 6 to 0. Wynne nosed out Helena in a homecoming game, 7 to 6, at Helena.

Benton High School rolled over Prescott, 25 to 7. Jonesboro showed a real hurricane in sweeping over Batesville, 66 to 0.

Nashville, after losing by a top-heavy score to Russellville last week, came back Friday night and gave Horatio a sound thrashing, 68 to 0.

Smackover beat Warren, 26 to 7.

Loads of between 20,000,000 and 40,000,000 germs are not uncommon for the average house fly, but it usually carries about 1,000,000 germs.

Land Utilization Program Ought to Put Forests First

State Planning Board Outlines 11-Point Program for Land

THIRD TIMBER STATE

Virgin Woods Mostly Gone—Must Grow Timber
as a Crop

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—State-wide forest protection, the Arkansas Planning Board said Saturday, should be the aim of any land utilization policy followed by this state.

The board outlined an 11-point platform developed from this conclusion in the second chapter of its annual report. The chapter revised in detail economic, social and industrial features of the forestry question.

Board's Recommendations

The recommendations were:
1. Present forest protection be continued and expanded as rapidly as economic conditions will permit, with a view towards state wide forest protection at the earliest possible date.

2. Relief from excessive drainage and levee taxes, particularly in the alluvial plain, be provided.

3. Every effort be made to bring about the prevention of soil erosion through sound forest and grazing practices.

4. Plans be continued for the establishment of a timber buying and marketing service for woodland owners and the buyers of forest products in co-operation with existing agencies.

5. The facilities of the state forest nursery be increased for the purpose of state-wide distribution of tree seedlings for farm planting as an aid in the prevention of erosion.

6. A course in the conservation of natural resources, including forestry, be required in the curricula of public schools.

7. Increased appropriations be provided for maintenance of the facilities constructed by the civilian conservation corps during the past three years.

8. A branch of management in the forestry commission be established to manage the state-owned forests and to assist industries and other forest landowners in better forest management.

9. All acts relating to timber theft, and the regulation of timber cutting in Arkansas be incorporated in one act.

10. A simple method of handling timber theft prosecutions under the timber theft law be developed.

11. The administration of all forest lands, to which titles is at present confirmed in the state, be placed under the state forestry commission and funds be made available for the efficient management and protection of these lands so that the state may obtain the maximum benefit therefrom.

Trailers Steal National Auto Show, in New York This Month

HOME'S COMFORTS

More Elaborate Trailers

By GEORGE A. WIEDA
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK.—The car gets ahead of the horsepower at the National Automobile Show this year as the public gives recognition to the newest big industry—the trailer industry—which already has put home-sweet-home on wheels for thousands of American families.

And that is not intended to detract, by the smallest title, from the magnificence of the display and the amazing achievement of the automobile industry. Never has there been such an enthralling, colorful exhibition of transportation in the vast reaches of the Grand Central Palace. Three floors are filled with the dazzling, streamlined array, bright with polished chromium and rainbow hues, true masterpieces of motordom.

It is in the "attic" of the show, on the fourth floor, that the trailers are found; yet visitors by tens of thousands push past the glamorous distractions below to view the Cinderella who has stolen the spotlight with an entirely new set of charms.

No Longer Experiment

Unlike the automobile, which found widespread acceptance while still in experimental form, the trailer makes its bid for popularity as a nearly perfected device. Most models follow the streamlined design of their motive power, and are exceptionally handsome considering their immensity. They feature colors that match the standard finishes of automobiles and are mounted to reduce driving difficulty as much as possible.

But it is in the interiors that the real surprises are found—air conditioning, electric lighting, mechanical refrigeration, shower baths, built-in bath tubs, hot and cold running water are included in the conveniences in-

On the first three floors, the gleaming all-star cast of motordom's most glamorous productions, dazzles spectators at New York's Auto Show. And up in the "attic" visitors make themselves "at home" (as at bottom) in the multitude of comforts offered by the first big trailer exhibit.

Clark Howell, of Constitution, Dies

Atlanta Newspaper Owner
Served as Boy Under Famed Henry Grady

ATLANTA, Ga.—(AP)—Clark Howell, 73, editor and president of the Atlanta Constitution, and a director of the Associated Press, died at his home here early Saturday after a two-months illness.

The career of Clark Howell is the story of the reporter who became publisher of his father's newspaper and a director of The Associated Press. It included also many chapters of distinguished political service to his state and the national democratic party.

Howell devoted the greater part of his life contributing to matters cultural, material and political in Georgia. He was born in South Carolina while his mother was a refugee from General Sherman's army advancing on Atlanta but it was in Georgia that he grew to manhood.

Twice he was called to render service of national importance. He was honored by President Harding in his appointment to the United States coal commission in 1921. In 1922 he was again called to a post of national import as a member of the national transportation committee of which Calvin Coolidge, former president, was chairman.

Howell was the son of the late Capt. Evan P. Howell and Julia (Erwin) Howell and was born September 21, 1863, at Erwin, S. C., a town which took its name from that of his mother's family. The Howells lived in Atlanta after his birth. He received his elementary education in the schools of Atlanta and was graduated from the University of Georgia in 1883.

Served Under Grady

He joined the editorial staff of the New York Times and after several months transferred to the night telegraph desk of the Philadelphia Press. In 1884 he returned to Atlanta and joined the staff of the Atlanta Constitution, of which his father was editor. There he came under the tutelage of Henry W. Grady, one of the south's most gifted newspaper men. Advancement thereafter was rapid. He became night editor in 1885. A year later he went into politics and at the age of 23 was elected to the Georgia house of representatives. He served three terms there, the last as speaker.

Although politics took much of his time, his newspaper work was not interrupted and he went ahead in both fields. In 1889, when Grady died, he became managing editor of the Constitution. The next year he was elected to the state senate and for six years was president of that body.

From 1896 to 1924 he was Democratic

PROMISE REPRISAL

Counter Attack Is Ordered
Against Rebels' Land Forces

MADRID, Spain.—(AP)—Insurgent bombers, unloading high explosives into a thronged Madrid plaza, killed an estimate 53 persons and wounded 50 others Saturday.

Relief workers announced the estimate of the dead.

The aerial attackers dropped eight explosives missiles, five of which fell into the throng in the plaza where a defense mass meeting was being held.

Stung to fury by the raid, Madrid's defense commander ordered his armies to "wipe out 50,000 of the enemy."

He ordered a relentless drive on the besiegers of Madrid a few hours after the air raid, one of the most disastrous of the siege of the city.

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—Detective Chief O. N. Martin announced Saturday the arrest of a 19-year-old Memphis youth for questioning in connection with the holdup slaying here a week ago of Melvin B. Markin, 38, Kroger grocery store manager.

Martin said the youth described as Chester Eugene Augustine, 19, was taken into custody on Wolf Island near Sikeston, Mo. He will be brought here.

Pay Hikes Posted by DuPont Mills

Increased Wages Sweep
Across National Industrial Scene

CHICAGO.—(AP)—Annual income of American workmen was increased by hundreds of thousands of dollars Friday as many additional firms raised the pay of their employees.

The DuPont Rayon company at Richmond, Va., granted an immediate wage boost of from 7 to 10 per cent to approximately 3,000 persons. Similar increases were put into effect by the Old Hickory units of E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. at Nashville, Tenn., with about 5,500 workers benefiting from a pay roll expansion unofficially estimated at $425,000 a year.

Officials of the concern at Wilmington, Del., said general managers of the firm's interests were considering upward adjustments in compensation.

The Atlantic Mills at Olneyville, R. I., announced a 10 per cent raise for 2,100 employees, effective November 20.

An upward revision was accorded approximately 5,000 workers in the footwear factory of United States Rubber Products Inc. at Naugatuck, Ct. The new rates were not disclosed.

A wage rate advance ranging from five to 10 per cent was voted for all employees of the Simonds Saw & Steel Co. in the United States. Units are located in Fitchburg, Mass., Lockport, N. Y., Chicago and other cities. Officials here figured 4,000 persons would be affected in all plants.

Pension Payment Is Property Lien

Private Owners Hold Arkansas Forests

The largest block of privately owned Arkansas Forest land is found in Southern and Southwestern sections, as shown on the above map. The nationally-owned forests are in Ouachita and Ozark mountain regions. In the Ouachita section there are 896,918 acres in federal forests, and 562,817 acres in the Ozark region. There is a proposed state forest area of 201,000 acres directly east of the Ouachita national forest. No definite plans have been formulated for the development of this area.

The Family Doctor

Sty, Eye Infection, Occurs Most Commonly in Children

By DR. MORRIS FISHEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine.

A sty is among the most common infections of the eye. Usually it represents an invasion by one of the common pus-forming germs, of the glands on the eyelids, or occasionally, of a hair follicle, too. The sty may occur at all ages, but is most common in children.

They often appear in crops. Sometimes they are associated with inflammation of the eyelid, and frequently with uncorrected errors of vision. In these cases the eye has not been able to protect itself as well against germs as it can when efforts of vision have been corrected.

A sty usually acts like a pimple or a small boil. After a day or two, the sty gets soft and bursts, the infectious material is discharged from it, and recovery follows.

Before the sty has softened, its development can sometimes be prevented by pulling out the hair that runs through it and by treating the spot with some antiseptic that is not dangerous to the eye itself.

Usually it is wise to apply hot compresses to sties to hasten development of inflammation. Then, as soon as a yellow spot is seen, the infectious material should be released. Since the eye is so delicate an organ, special attention of this sort should be supplied by a competent physician.

Repeated reformation of sties indicates that the body has little resistance to infection. The susceptible person, therefore, should have a physical examination and develop suitable hygiene to overcome the lack of resistance. The diet should be corrected to provide, particularly, correct amounts of proteins, mineral salts, and vitamins. In some instances, when sties form repeatedly, physicians collect the germs, make a vaccine of dead germs, and reinject this into the patient, thus developing specific resistance against the germs that caused the sties.

Sometimes repeated sties result from infections in the nose and throat, or the sinuses. In the investigation that is made when sties occur repeatedly, this point should be kept in mind.

Your Children

By Olive Roberts Barton

Miniature Diversion

PARIS.—The traveler has a tendency to compare the customs of other lands with her own, and not infrequently with a prejudiced eye. The prejudice may favor our ways and means at home, but quite as often one hears visitors exclaim, "Why can't we do this or that with our children?" And I happened to hear some American mothers voice my own opinion on a matter that I believe the French beat us at.

It is a very definite civic effort to amuse very little children. In Paris and other cities in France, for instance, everywhere that there is a park or an open space available, one sees tiny carousels or merry-go-rounds. The little horses are not bigger than good-sized dogs; also, there are tiny carriages for babies too small to stick on the diminutive steeds. The conveyances are close to the ground, and the whole pocket edition of our roaring affairs could be folded up and carried away on a medium-sized truck.

No rip-roaring music accompanies these racers on their circular track, but instead, a little tinkly organ piping a merry tune makes it all jolly for little Yvonne or Gilbert, who have been allowed two pennies or so to play the horses.

And this is not all. In the famous Tuilleries Gardens, for example, the most beautiful of city parks, there are not only these small carousels, but Punch-and-Judy shows, playgrounds with very small and very, very safe swings.

The Punch-and-Judy show has a miniature stage. The seats are low and little. The whole thing is on a scale that makes young children feel intimate and at ease.

Needless to say, the place is full of people all the time. Children play there from morning until night. Of course, the little ones are accompanied by mother or nurse. But the others go, too. There are special concrete areas for skates, and scooters and tricycles. And above all, there are literally thousands and thousands of chairs everywhere.

Parisians Seek Outdoors
If I were asked what had impressed me most in Paris, the streets, or the lovely grays of the trees, the cleanliness of the buildings, I believe I would have to bet ruthful and answer, "Chairs." For wherever you go, into a handkerchief of a park, or one of the enormous, magnificent gardens for which the city is famous, there are chairs and chairs and more chairs.

Oh, how the Parisians do enjoy being outdoors and, as someone said, they "use" every lovely inch of space under the trees and the sky. Papa and Mama and the children wouldn't think of sneaking all their free moments at home. No, out they go, certainly Mama and the children the first chance they get.

In time we too shall get to it, I dare say. We now make small nursery furniture for the toddlers and kindergartners; but so far it has not occurred to us to slice down any of our amusements either in size or price to suit the Lilliputian customers. So here is a suggestion for city fathers, or concessionaires, or whoever wishes to set up an amusement place of his own. Build small. Build low, and put plenty of chairs all about to make it look cozy. It is timely now to be planning for next spring.

HOLLYWOOD

By Paul Harrison

Cinema Sidelights: Male Laed for "Gone With the Wind" in the Air... Footprints

HOLLYWOOD.—Short takes: Acid Gene Fowlerism (for married men): "Be sure you're right, and then keep quiet about it."

Most popular game in the colony is casting "Gone With the Wind," which has caught the screen world's fancy more than any book in years. Fact is that Producer David Selznick hasn't signed anybody, in spite of printed reports that Tallulah Bankhead, Ronald Colman, and others have been chosen. Colman, I happen to know, actually doesn't want the male lead, because he doesn't believe he or any other actor could play the part to public expectations.

Clark Gable, Richard Dix, and others have been mentioned, but Alan Marshall, brought here from Broadway for "The Garden of Allah," actually has the inside track in the race. Nearly every actress except Jane Withers has been nominated for the role of Scarlett.

When William Powell and Myrna Loy went to the Chinese theater to leave their footprints in the cement forecourt, they both wore shoes about five sizes too large for them. It was a swell rib for the scores of players who have preceded them, their feet punched in shoes so small they could scarcely walk.

Garbo—in a Comedy!
"The Good Earth" is finally ready for a preview, but at this writing Paul Muni, the star, hasn't seen a foot of it. So he rushes during production of a picture.

More evidence of a new and strangely happier Garbo—she wants to make a comedy.
Miss Garbo, by the way, is the only tomboyish star remaining in the old-fashioned dressing-room building at M-G-M. Robert Taylor has just moved into a fancy bungalow suite. The colony's piling in to Palm

Spring have begun, and for the rest of the winter it will be a disgrace to be seen in Hollywood over the week-ends.

Anybody looking for Fred Keating can find him at the Brown Derby at the dinner hour, always at the same table.

George Raft has a black eye; he took a dare to spar with a pro at a local training gym.
Vladimir Baikoff, brother-in-law of Mae West, is a Georgian Russian and looks astonishingly like the Melvian brothers. But he doesn't claim to be a prince.

"Marco" Cooper

So I've been wrong all this time in my conviction that Douglas Fairbanks would weaken in his resolution of retirement and would return to the screen in "Marco Polo." He once reminded me a little wistfully, thought—that "Marco Polo" was just my age when he was having his adventures.

But it will be Gary Cooper, instead, in the title role. Fairbanks has formed a partnership with Samuel Goldwyn to put over the huge production.

Super Epics

Other super-epics in the offing: "Danton" and "Joan of Arc," both by the Brothers Warner. Erich Korngold, brought from Europe, already is writing the score for the Max Reinhardt production of "Danton." This reverses the usual procedure of filming a picture and then allotting the composers two weeks to turn out music for it. Claudette Colbert will be Joan of Arc.

Temple Rival

Errol Flynn, also vacationing for three months when "Another Dawn" is completed, goes to the South Seas—without Lili Damita.

From stand-in to co-star moves Bobby March. He was the stand-in for his twin, Billy March, in "Anthony Adverse." But they'll be equally important in "The Prince and the Pauper." . . . Second juvenile note: Columbia has a five-year-old prodigy named Patsy O'Connor, who can compete with Shirley Temple in singing, hoofing and all-round emoting.

Race Is Over; Barrymore Weds

The stereotyped happy ending had come to the storm-tossed romance of John Barrymore, 55, the screen's great lover, and Elaine Barrie, his 19-year-old protegee, when the pair posed here in Los Angeles after their sudden elopement to Yuma, Ariz. The marriage climaxed the "love derby" the two have staged for two years, featured by frantic races across the continent, with Barrymore the pursued and his new bride the pursuer.

"Tin Can" Tourists

DENVER, Colo.—(P)—America's "tin can" tourists, greatly glorified in shiny new cars, are traveling western trails again in record numbers.

Official figures prove the tourist let-down years from 1930-34 are over, but westerners need no figures to convince them. Roads were comfortably crowded last summer with cars of easterners, northerners and southerners seeking play and frost bite among snow-capped peaks of the Rockies.

The National Park Service counted 9,929,432 noses, most of them sunburned, as they entered the 134 national parks and monuments of the nation. The previous peak was 7,675,000 in 1935.

Men marry at an average age of 27½ years.

A Book a Day

By Bruce Catton

Lynchings Involves Able McLaughlins.

In "The Law and the McLaughlins" (Doubleday, Doran; $2.50), Margaret Wilson returns to the characters and scenes of "The Able McLaughlins," her Pulitzer prize-winning novel of several seasons ago.

The McLaughlin family are hardy Scotch pioneers who came to America for religious freedom. With them they brought their staunch ideals and firm purposes, and established a small, God-fearing community in the heart of the wilderness.

This book is concerned particularly with Jean McLaughlin, a strong-bodied, strong-minded girl, full of rather confused noble purposes.

Early one morning in the winter of 1888, Jean McLaughlin finds two men hanged in the McLaughlin woods. He rushes to the home of his uncle, an old Scotch patriarch, and the hunt for the lynchings is on. And on and on it goes.

For page after page the reader concerns himself (or tries to) about the three men accused of the lynchings. Did they do it? Didn't they do it?

For quite a number of chapters nobody seems to know, least of all the author. It may be suspense, but it is confusing.

All this is further complicated by Jean McLaughlin's going away to teach, falling in love with, and marrying one of the supposed lynchings, who is living in another community under an assumed name. Nothing is really cleared up to anyone's satisfaction until the deathbed confession of Jean's husband to Willy.

The confession proves satisfactorily the nobility of the husband. It seems the other two men did it. They were the lynchings. It was all over before he had realized what was happening.

How you feel about all this depends on how you feel about lynchings and the proper treatment of horse thieves. All I can say for the book is—at least it's clean.—E. M. T.

Has Flown Every Day for 7 Years

Missouri Doctor Sets Safety Record in All Weather

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—(P)—On a forty-day day here November 16, 1929, Dr. John D. Brock climbed into the cockpit of his private plane to start the most unusual record in aviation.

Daily since then, in foul weather or fair, the "flying Doc" has taken his plane into the air for at least half an hour. While Charles Lindbergh, Amelia Earhart and others were thrilling the world with daring exploits, the quiet-spoken optical manufacturer was piling up a safety record unsurpassed anywhere in the annals of flying.

The Gehrig of Aviation

What "Lou" Gehrig, New York Yankee first baseman, is to baseball, Dr. Brock is to aviation. Gehrig has played in more than 1,800 consecutive games.—Dr. Brock is rounding out his seventh year of daily flights. On November 15 he will take his 2,557th consecutive air trip.

The world's most persistent flier has been an aviation enthusiast since his first ride as a passenger in 1911. He was taught to fly in 1924 by the veteran "Tex" LaGrone, whose whimsical ambition it was to be the "oldest living pilot." Perhaps that was why Brock took the beginning was cautious at the controls.

Flies Bait or Shines

In 1929 he started flying daily to prove his contention the weather was never too bad for at least a short spin each day. He flew through sunshine, rain, fog, snow, sleet and high winds to win his point. At the close of the first year, Dr. Brock, who used the same plane and engine each time, had probably done more than any other individual to prove the reliability of modern aircraft.

No other flier has ever threatened the unique record since hung up by the sportsman pilot. The "Doc" himself has no idea how long he will continue to fly daily. "Perhaps I'll quit at the end of the 10-year mark," he smiles. "Perhaps not."

Brock, who keeps a chart of each flight, estimates he was in the air 425 hours and flew 50,000 miles the first year. He swelled the mileage in 1931 with a nation-wide air tour. On October 1 of this year his log book showed 6,125 flying hours—and 600,000 air miles covered in 2,513 flights.

By now as much as home in the air as on the ground, Brock shaves with an electric razor while piloting. He flies one of his three planes regularly on long business and pleasure trips. To keep his daily flights from conflicting with fishing, his other hobby, he purchased a 2,700-acre tract in the Ozark mountains in 1934 and built his own airport.
